Economic news turns dark

Jobless rate rises after long decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate rose from 8.3 to 8.6 per cent of the labor force in October, reversing a four month decline, the government reported today.

The bleak job report following Thursday's announcement of a new spurt of inflation last month was a double blow to the Ford administration, which is certain to face new questions over its efforts to pull the economy from the worst recession since the 1930s.

In its report, the Labor Department said the number of unemployed in October increased by 230,000 to 8 million. The number of Americans with jobs stood at 85.4 million, about the same as in September.

The size of the nation's labor force increased, rising by about 250,000 to 93.4 million last month.

The increase in joblessness last month was the first since the unemployment rate reached its recession peak of 9.2 per cent last May. Since then, unemployment had dropped gradually as the nation began its recovery from the recession, falling to 8.6 per cent in June and dropping further to 8.4 per cent during the summer and finally to 8.3 per cent in September.

Labor Department officials attributed most of the increased jobless in October to persons re-entering the labor force, apparently in the hope of finding work as production in the nation's factories picked up.

Some economists have expressed concern over the strength of the economic recovery, particularly over fears that renewed inflation could abort new growth.

Inflation as measured by the wholesale price index jumped 1.8 per cent in October, the sharpest rise in a year, the government reported Thursday. At the White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the price news caused some concern among the President's economic advisers but that they wanted to "see evidence over a somewhat longer period of time" before reaching any new conclusions on the economy's direction.

The number of Americans receiving unemployment insurance benefits increased in the week ending Oct. 18, reversing a five-week trend.

Including beneficiaries of emergency benefit programs enacted a year ago, the government says 5,423,800 persons received benefits that week, an increase of 241,000 over the previous week. Initial claims for benefits also were up, rising to 444,000 in the week ending Oct. 25 from 410,000 a week earlier.

Analysts attribute some of the increase to the end of seasonal jobs.

The administration's forecast for unemployment is a reduction in the rate to between 7 and 7.5 per cent by the end of 1976. Joblessness reached a recession peak of 9.2 per cent last May with 8.5 million Americans unable to find jobs.

In its wholesale price report, the Labor Department said industrial prices rose 1.2 per cent last month, up from seventenths of 1 per cent in September. Farm prices rose 2.2 per cent, high by historical standards but about half the 4.3 per cent rate in September.

Inflation at both the wholesale and retail levels moderated early this year, but a price surge during the summer months prompted concern over a new inflationary spiral. Price increases slowed again in early fall and most economists dismissed the summer spurt as only temporary.

The White House noted that the October wholesale report contained "a number of technical and one-shot factors" that helped boost prices. This was a reference to the sharp rise in new car prices, which reflected introduction of the 1976 models.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee's Democratic majority suddenly canceled plans to vote on an extension of most of this year's tax cuts.

The vote had been scheduled for late Thursday, but Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said it was "quite obvious we've got problems" with the bill. Vanik said supporters of the measure had enough votes to get it out of committee but the stumbling block appeared to be in the Rules Committee, which clears legislation for full House action.

Coffee Break . .

IT IS beautiful to see the leaves of many colors falling to ground this time of year, but it is unusual to a forsythia shrub such as the one on the Mrs. Charles Deakne property, U.S. 22-E, losing its leaves and blooming at the same time . . . The shrub normally blooms in early spring . . .

Mrs. Deakne is guessing that the abundance of rain and the warm days the area has experienced this fall have her shrub confused.

THE JOB'S NOT HEAVY: HE'S MY NEIGHBOR — Many of Howard Stewart's neighbors in the Ohio 753-Flakes Ford Road area got together Thursday afternoon to harvest and shell Stewart's corn for him. Some 20 wagons and trucks showed up along with five combines and Eshelman's

Feed, Inc., assisted the project by keeping its grain elevator open for only Stewart's corn. Stewart was worried he wouldn't get to his corn shelling because of his running back and forth to Columbus to visit his sick wife.

Corn shelled as he visits wife in Columbus hospital

Neighbors provide pleasant surprise for area farmer

By MARK THELLMANN

When Howard Stewart returned to his farm at the intersection of Ohio 753 and Flakes Ford Road late Thursday evening, a pleasant surprise was awaiting him — his neighbors had all pitched in and shelled his 55 acres of corn that afternoon.

John Fetters, 3528 Creek Road, who organized the good deed explained,

"Howard has been running back and forth to Riverside Hospital in Columbus visiting his sick wife and was worried he wouldn't get his corn shelled before bad weather. He hired me to do the job since I work land in his area and then his neighbors started calling me and asking what was happening with his corn since it was getting late in the season for the final harvest. Everyone wanted to help and I suggested we all get together at 1 p.m. Thursday afternoon and get the job done."

Fetters added that on the day of the mass harvest, his wife who was taking many of the telephone calls, actually had to turn people away.

"We wound up with some 20 wagons and trucks and at this moment five combines are working the land," Fetters beamed. "Only one problem remained and that was one involving storage in the grain elevators since most of them in the area are full, but Eshelman's Feed, Inc., found out about what we were doing and stayed open to accept only Howard's corn. Sure makes a man feel good when things work out this way!"

Chances are Howard Stewart felt pretty good too when he saw what his loving, caring neighbors had done to show how they felt about him.

Rail plan for Ohio may be revived

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Failure of a constitutional amendment that would have permitted Ohio to subsidize privately owned railroads "will not significantly affect Ohio's rail planning process," its sponsor says, adding that it may appear on the June ballot.

Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, said Thursday he expects the new Ohio Rail Transit Authority (ORTA), created under a separate statute, will go ahead and plan for Ohio's involvement in the already federally subsidized rail systems — Amtrak and ConRail — while developing a state "high speed" rail plan connection to the state's big cities.

At the same time, the sponsor of another ill-fated amendment, that came out of the legislature, said Thursday he probably will let rest his amendment to authorize tax breaks for the owners of recreational lands. "My first inclination is that I will not reintroduce it," said Rep. Kenneth R. Cox, D-41 Barberton.

Wilkowski and Cox had the only unsuccessful propositions placed on the ballot by the legislature. Three others were approved, while Gov. James A. Rhodes' four economic recovery amendments, put before voters by initiative petition, were overwhelmingly rejected.

Wilkowski and the former Barberton mayor both said the negative voter attitude toward the Rhodes proposals figured in the defeat of theirs. But both cited other reasons.

The Toledoan, who heads the House Economic Affairs and Federal Relations Committee, said a lack of publicity "either pro or con," along with a lack of understanding among voters, resulted in the defeat of his rails proposal. "We spent no money and didn't even have a committee," he added.

He said he plans to redraft it with simpler language, hopeful he can persuade the legislature to put it on the ballot again in the 1976 June primary.

Among other things, he said he wants to delete the words "bond issues" and "tax abatement" — words he said probably were quickly associated with the governor's devastated four-part package.

Ohio's commitment to take part in the federal rail reorganization plan remains uncertain pending final action later this month in Congress, along with the development of a state plan, Wilkowski said.

But he said there is an immediate need for the completion of Ohio's plan which faces a deadline of 30 "working days" following final congressional action. As the federal plan now is written, Ohio would be required to pay 30 per cent and the federal government 70 per cent of operating losses of the carriers agreeing to maintain service in Ohio.

However, Wilkowski said he has been assured "there is a feeling in Congress" that to help Ohio and other states with so many miles of existing track, that the federal government should subsidize the losses "for the first couple of years."

He said the law that created ORTA requires that the governor name its four members—two from each major political party—no later than Dec. 10. The same law requires ORTA to develop the federal-state plan, which the Department of Transportation has under way—and the plan for the intrastate, high speed commuter system no later than next July 1, Wilkowski said.

The legislature, in anticipation of voter approval of the ill-fated amendment, appropriated $1.8 million this year for ORTA to acquire staff and proceed with plans to save Ohio's rail system, including as much as possible of its estimated 10,000 miles of track, the Lucas County attorney said.

Cox, who sponsored what became known as the "country club amendment" also said he felt voters misunderstood its primary purpose and associated it almost exclusively with country clubs.

He said it was intended to save other open space besides country clubs from urban sprawl, and said "middle America" citizens would have been the chief beneficiaries.

The former mayor conceded that it was the country clubs which were the most "vociferous" among the proponents, but "relaxed" after getting the proposal through the legislature. He described the campaign on behalf of the ballot proposal as "underfunded and not well organized."

Records in Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's office showed that a committee seeking passage of the proposal, in a report filed 12 days before the election, had spent slightly more than $20,000 for advertising, all of it in newspapers.

Judge sees Fromme jury panel today

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Fromme, on trial for attempted assassination of President Ford, has spent three days in some unorthodox sparring with the judge over selection of a jury to decide her fate. But the judge says he expects to get the jury seated and opening arguments underway before the end of today's court session.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride halted the questioning of prospective jurors Thursday after 40 persons had qualified as potential jurors.

Miss Fromme, 27 and a follower of mass murderer Charles Manson, is acting as her own attorney. She is charged with attempted murder of a president in the first case under the federal law passed after the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

She could be sentenced to life in prison if convicted. She was arrested in a park outside the state Capitol Sept. 5 after pointing a loaded .45-caliber pistol at Ford from two feet away.

Miss Fromme displayed unorthodox legal tactics Thursday in questioning prospective jurors. She tried to empanel one juror who said he was prejudiced against her, gave a tongue-lashing to a state engineer, made numerous unsuccessful challenges and clashed verbally with MacBride all day.

Tuesday night at county museum

Veteran's Day rites slated

Despite congressional maneuvering to celebrate Veteran's Day on an extended weekend, Fayette County veterans plan to hold ceremonies Nov. 11, the original date designated for the memorial.

Activities will begin at 8:15 a.m. with a program at Washington Senior High School and will climax Tuesday evening with a parade and flagpole dedication at the Fayette County Historical Society museum on Columbus Avenue.

The speaker for the high school assembly will be Jack Scott of Bainbridge, seventh district commander of the Ohio American Legion. The commander of American Legion Post 25, Russell Liston, and past commander Henry Litz will also participate.

A similar program will be presented at Miami Trace High School beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The Fayette County Veterans of World War I will hold a short service on the Courthouse lawn at 11 a.m. The service will take place as usual in front of the World War I memorial.

At 7:30 p.m., a parade will leave the American Legion hall on N. Fayette Street. It will proceed down Fayette Street to Court Street and east to the museum.

Former Fayette County Probate Court Judge Omar Schwartz will be the keynote speaker for services on the museum lawn which are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. The Rev. Wilbur Bullock, pastor of McNair Presbyterian Church, will serve as chaplain.

During the service, the newly-erected flagpole in front of the museum will be dedicated. An American flag which has been flown over the Capitol will be raised. It was provided as a gift by Congressman William H. Harsha. The new flagpole is anchored in granite and bears the colorful bicentennial emblem.

A 21-gun salute will be offered in memory of those who have given their service and lives through the course of American history. The shots will be fired in three separate volleys. The first volley will be fired from muzzle-loading flint and percussion weapons. The second will be fired from rear loading rifles used in World War I, and the final volley from modern M-16 automatic weapons.

Participating in the parade and services will be the Washington Senior High School marching band and the Naval Junior ROTC unit.

The veterans of World War I will attend the evening service but take no active part.

Cleveland salesman winner in lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Cleveland salesman won the top prize in Thursday's Ohio Lottery Buckeye 1,000 game.

Harold W. Warner, 53, said his good fortune overwhelmed him. "It was quite a shock. Maybe in awhile I'll get use to it."

The father of three married children, Warner said he plans to take a trip to Hawaii and to pay the loan on his car. He is a salesman for Union Camp Corp. in Solon.

He will receive $1,000 a month for the rest of his life and is guaranteed at least $400,000.

Ohio lottery spokesmen said the second-place $30,000 winner was Pearl Flicks of Mayfield Heights. The $25,000 winner was J.T. Best of Bedford. The $20,000 winner was Larry Lesniewicz of Rossford and the $15,000 winner was Marie Buchanan of Cincinnati.

Other Buckeye 1,000 winners were Georgiana Degler of Dayton, $10,000; Karen Allshouse of Maple Heights, $7,500; Arthur Armstrong of Cin-

College grads get crowded out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Recent statistics show that the four-year college graduate is being crowded out of the market by trained specialists, the Ohio Council of Private Colleges and Schools says.

The council says the situation is causing many high school seniors to closely examine the educational and employment opportunities available after graduation.

Some youths are choosing schools that gear their programs toward specialization, the council said. Program lengths vary from several months to two years of intense training. The council is made up of 104 of the career schools.

Special education pupils prepare crafts for event

BLOOMINGBURG — The students of the Bloomingburg Elementary School special education class have been busy this week preparing craft projects for the school carnival Saturday.

Free periods are spent making a variety of candles, owls, snowmen, small animals and other wax forms. They are also making plaques from plaster. The mixed plaster is poured into molds and decoupage pictures are later applied. The plaques may be hung on walls or placed in attractive holders to rest on desks or tables.

One of their favorite crafts is string art. The students choose from tear-drop, antique car, triplane or geometric shapes.

Making replicas of antique lamps is another craft enjoyed by many of the students. During the year, each student will make one of each type of craft project in his own home.

The crafts will be sold at the carnival at prices ranging from 50 cents to $5. Proceeds from the sale will be used to replenish craft materials and to provide funds for a class field trip.

Launch drive for energy

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A statewide petition drive to urge elected officials to act on the nation's energy crisis was launched Thursday night with news the Outdoor Advertisers Association has conditionally committed 1,000 billboards to the campaign.

James M. Foreman, spokesman for the Clark County Concerned Citizens for Energy, told a kickoff meeting the association agreed to supply the billboard advertising if the group shows it is sincere in its effort to mobilize a statewide campaign.

The group, which recently sent a 28-person contingent to Washington with 64,000 signatures gathered locally, has set a goal of collecting three million signatures statewide during the next 60 days.

The group has set up a speakers bureau to advise other communities on canvassing procedures and other organizational matters.

The petitions will be addressed to Congress and the federal administration, spokesmen said. They will offer no solutions to the energy problems but merely will be designed to stir elected officials to action on making a more concerted effort to meet the nation's energy needs.

2 Ohioans among Russian tourists

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Ohioans will be among 11 Americans beginning a three-week trip to the Soviet Union on Monday to exchange information on corrosion, a $15-billion-a-year problem in the United States.

Dr. Roger W. Staehle of Ohio State University, the head of the delegation, said the aim of the trip is to find areas in which the two countries can co-operate and those in which the U.S. lags behind.

Linear labs have an edge

It seems to be no happenstance that the male entertainers and public figures women idolize tend to be lanky rather than musclebound. A study conducted among Chicago women by the Loyola University psychology department indicates that this reflects widespread preferences. There's no surprise in being told that in general women admire men with lean taper rather than those who approximate the pear-shaped look; it has been ever thus. But a notable change is seen in the finding that most of today's women are much less intrigued than in the past by the muscular powerhouse type. Mighty fellows need not despair: Junoesque women are likely to go for them. It's just that linear body types seem to be more widely popular these days.

Softening positions in South Africa

Something is happening in South Africa. The government of B. John Vorster does not propose any internal retreat from the policy of apartheid, but it has been making conciliatory gestures to the black countries of the north.

The idea of an African detente has had the blessing, mirabile dictu, of President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, who joined Vorster in the recent effort to bring diplomatic pressure to bear on Rhodesia with the hope, not yet fulfilled, of generating some progress in that country toward better black political representation.

The idea of a South African detente has not had the formal endorsement of the organization of African Unity, but when a black South African liberation movement-in-exile group met in Dar-es-Salaam with representatives of the north to discuss intervention in South Africa, it was voted out of order. Astoundingly, an Organization of African Unity position paper put talk of South Africa's internal apartheid out of bounds as long as "colonialist" questions in Rhodesia and Southwest Africa are unsettled.

Could it be that black Africa is willing to wait a bit while South Africa pushes its policy of providing for nine black homelands as independent tribal states each with its own definitive boundaries? The freely elected parliament of the Transkei, one of the projected black South African mini-nations, has voted its own independence, with the date being set for October of 1976. The Transkei is the native turf of the Xhosa nation, whose four million people have had internal self-government for 12 years.

As a proof of sovereignty, First Minister Kaiser Matanzima of the Xhosa will, after independence, apply for membership in both the United Nations and the Organization of African Unity. This will put the free black nations of the north in something of a philosophical bind. If they vote to accept the Transkei as an independent nation, they will be putting a seal of endorsement on the South African policy of promoting geographical apartheid.

As an evidence of good faith, the white government of South Africa has agreed to permit the Transkei to have its own army.

All of this may simply be postponing the day when the militants will begin to apply the same guerrilla tactics within South Africa that they have been following with such destructive success in Portuguese Angola. In permitting the Transkei to have its own military forces, South Africa is gambling on the reciprocal good faith of the freed Xhosa nation, whose Chief Matanzima has promised to come to the defense of South Africa against invading infiltrators from the north. When there are nine free black homelands encapsulated in a white South Africa, each with its own army, apartheid with get its true test.

American liberals don't want to wait for that day. They applauded Zambia's Kenneth Kaunda when, during a recent visit to Washington, he called in a White House dinner toast for "America to desist from direct and indirect support to minority regimes."

Ironically, there was no liberal outcry when Muhammad Ali, in an extensive Playboy interview, approved apartheid for American blacks. Ali, threatening a dire comeuppance for white America, spoke of the day when American blacks will have a four-or-five-state enclave all to themselves within the greater corporate body of the United States.

In short Ali, as the spokesman for Black Muslims, is all for "separate development." He turns the old Southern idea on its head when he justifies black vigilante punishment of whites caught fooling around with black girls.

Ali is nothing if not candid. But it is odd that he should turn up as the ideological mirror image of South Africa's Vorster.

Guard tells of plant blast at trial

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A security guard at the Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant in nearby Shelton testified Thursday one of the men accused of firebombing the plant questioned him about his duties the day before the building was destroyed.

John Grande told a U.S. District Court jury that the Rev. David Bubar, who reportedly predicted disaster at the $10 million factory, quizzed him about his duties on Feb. 28.

Bubar and eight other men are being tried on charges stemming from the explosion and fire.

Bubar, a consultant to company owner and defendant Charles Moeller of Cridersville, Ohio, told the guard he planned to be back on Saturday, March 1 to install some telephone lines and needed keys to the firm's computer, Grande said. The guard said he refused to give Bubar the keys.

Grande said in answer to a question from Bubar, a self-proclaimed psychic from Memphis, Tenn., he said it took him two hours to walk a three-mile circuit around the factory.

When Bubar asked whether the guard would be on duty March 1, Grande said he replied no. Grande testified that he then refused to answer further questions from Bubar.

Earlier Casimir Pierkowski, a 27-year veteran maintenance supervisor, testified that Bubar asked that an elevator at the plant be fixed.

U.S. Atty. Peter Dorsey said 22 drums of gasoline and dynamite were brought into the plant March 1 and used to level the facility that night.

Dorsey contends that Bubar, Moeller and the other defendants conspired to blow up the factory to collect insurance money.

Ohio marketbasket survey shows overall price steady

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five per cent jumps in the cost of coffee and milk partly offset declining sugar prices during October and the average price of a basket of groceries around Ohio held steady during the month.

Remember when a five-pound bag of sugar cost 80 cents? That was in November 1973, when The Associated Press began a monthly survey of grocery prices at selected stores in Ohio. By the end of October 1975, the same bag of sugar cost $1.30. Even so, that was down 17 per cent from the end of September.

In some other comparisons from the shopping basket:

Pork chops which cost an average of $1.48 per pound two years ago now cost $2.19; chuck roast cost $1.29 per pound then and is down to $1.22 today; eggs cost 88 cents a dozen for medium grade "A" then and only 68 cents now; orange juice was 30 cents for a 12 ounce frozen can then, compared to 65 cents now.

On the current list, the average basket of groceries at the end of October at 12 selected sites around Ohio cost $18.60, the same as it was a month earlier.

Average prices for the total shopping list rose 4 per cent in Akron and Portsmouth and 7 per cent in Van Wert. The other nine cities where comparisons were available showed declines. These ranged from a 5 per cent drop at Athens, Columbus and Conneaut, down to a bare .02 of a per cent at Fremont.

Price changes by item were: Hamburger, chuck roast, potatoes, detergent and orange juice, all up 1 per cent; bread and cookies up 3 per cent; chicken, milk and coffee up 5 per cent. The price of peanut butter and eggs declined 1 per cent over the month. A pound of margarine and a four-roll pack of toilet tissue dropped 3 per cent in price while the cost of a pound of center cut pork chops dropped a 6 per cent.

Total cost of the list of groceries by city and starting with the most expensive at the end of October was:

Portsmouth $20.85; Van Wert, $19.59; Akron, $19.27; Athens, $19.23; Chillicothe, $18.70; Columbus, $18.66; Fremont, $18.51; Youngstown, $18.43; Findlay, $17.75; Cleveland, $17.52; Conneaut $17.17; and Toledo, $16.65.

Set appeal of contempt

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — John T. Shanks, 52, a Dayton attorney found guilty of contempt of court and sentenced 10 days in jail for refusing an order to disclose the whereabouts of a woman client and her 14-year-old son, said he will appeal the decision.

Shanks told Montgomery County Domestic Relations Court Tuesday that he felt attorney-client privilege law prevented him from telling where the mother and son were. They are involved in a divorce-child custody hearing.

"I don't feel I have the legal right to reveal confidential information," Shanks told referee William F. Parker, who issued the penalty.

Shanks was released on his own recognizance pending the outcome of the appeal to the Ohio Second District Court of Appeals.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Teen seeks to clean up reputation

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl with a terrible problem. I wanted to be popular with the dudes, so I smoked grass, got drunk and did things only married people should do. Now I want to change.

I haven't messed around for four months. I took a job part-time as a janitor at a restaurant and I'm getting real good grades, but I'm still called a "whore."

Nobody will give me a chance, Abby. I have no friends. Girls are afraid they'll get a bad name if they're seen with me, and I can't blame them. Boys want only one thing, and since I've stopped putting out, they don't bother with me.

I hate myself. I've been so down and lonely lately. When I was a whore, at least I had someone to talk to. Shrinkers are expensive, and there are no free clinics here for counseling.

All my teachers hate me because of my reputation, and I feel too cheap and dirty to go to church. Please help me.

WANTS TO CHANGE

DEAR WANTS: I'm proud of you. You have already grown spiritually, or you wouldn't have thought of going to church or changing your ways.

You're wrong, honey. Your teachers don't hate you, and you're not too "dirty" to go to church.

Pick the teacher you'd most like for a friend and meet her half-way. Also, go to church and give your clergyman a chance to help you. All you need to change your life is the will to do it. Please try and write to me again in six months and tell me how things are going. I care.

DEAR ABBY: In response to that 52-year-old woman who is going with a 34-year-old man. She's afraid her children and others will think she's making a fool of herself. She's also afraid people might think she is his mother.

I am 51, and I've been going with a very handsome, 28-year-old man for over two years.

Doyle and I don't care if someone mistakes me for his mother. After all, I am 23 years older than Doyle and that's old enough to be his mother.

The day I stopped worrying about what other people thought I started living again.

I have a son who is older than Doyle, and he says, "Mom, anything that makes you happy is just fine with me."

If people limited their friends to their own age group, they'd miss a lot of fun. I say, enjoy what you have while you have it. It will all be gone too soon.

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CAL: I'm with you!

DEAR ABBY: How does one address a congratulatory telegram to newlyweds who are retaining their individual surnames? Western Union couldn't give me an answer.

DEAR UNCLE: "Congratulations to Mary Smith and John Jones on your marriage."

DEAR ABBY: In response to the mother-to-be who asked whether some people were uncomfortable in the presence of a woman who was breastfeeding her baby in public, I would like to post a definite YES!

A woman's bare breast is a bare breast, whether it's exposed to nurse a baby or displayed for sexual titillation.

There is no excuse for a mother's nursing her baby in public. She can always find a rest room.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, November 7, the 311th day of 1975. There are 54 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1917, the Bolsheviks overthrew the shortlived Kerensky government in Russia, and Nikolai Lenin became the new head of government.

On this date:
In 1659, the Pyrenees were fixed as the boundary between France and Spain, ending a 24-year war.

In 1811, the Shawnee Indians were defeated in the Battle of Tippecanoe in Indiana.

In 1885, the Canadian Pacific Railroad was completed.

In 1918, a false report that Germany had accepted World War One peace terms set off great excitement.

In 1942, the Allied invasion of North Africa began in World War Two.

In 1944, Franklin Roosevelt was elected to an unprecedented fourth term.

Ten years ago: The Soviet Union displayed three new compact, highly maneuverable, rocket systems at a military parade in Moscow's Red Square.

Five years ago: A 19-year-old Canadian student told an inquest in Montreal that he and three other men had abducted Labor Minister Pierre Laporte of Quebec, who later was slain.

One year ago: Following elections, the Democrats had a two-thirds majority in the House of Representatives and three-fifths in the Senate.

Today's birthdays: Soprano Joan Sutherland is 49 years old. Evangelist Billy Graham is 57.

Thought for today: Can anybody remember when the times were not hard, and money not scarce? — Ralph Waldo Emerson, American writer, 1803-1882.

Jesus Is Buried

And when Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth. And laid it in his own new tomb. -Matthew 27: 59-60

As the soldiers watched Jesus slowly dying upon the cross, they continued to mock him. "He saved others; himself he cannot save," they taunted. Then, gradually, a great darkness came over the land, the veil of the temple's tabernacle was rent in two and a mighty quake shook the earth. One of the soldiers filled a sponge with vinegar and gave it to Jesus to drink. Then, after three hours, another pierced his side with a lance. Blood and water gushed forth but Jesus was already dead. Then came one of Jesus's disciples, a rich man called Joseph of Arimathea. He asked and received from Pilate permission to bury Jesus in his own tomb. This done, he placed a huge stone before it and departed.

Alpha CCL auction is 'attraction'

Alpha Child Conservation League members met in the home of Mrs. Clyde Palmer Wednesday evening for a meeting and an old-fashioned auction followed. Members brought either homemade items or homebaked goods for the auction, which netted the group approximately $125.00 Mrs. William Fletcher was the auctioneer.

Mrs. Russell Liston conducted the business session and gave devotions pertaining to "An Old-Fashioned Thanksgiving." Reports were heard and the annual Christmas dinner-party for 7 p.m. Dec. 3 at the Terrace Lounge was announced by Mrs. Harold Foster. Husbands will be guests for the evening. Hostesses will be Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Russell McCoy, Mrs. H.T. Hoffman, Mrs. William Clark and Mrs. Robert Climer.

A donation of $5 was made to the Washington Middle School to defray expenses for the presentation of "Hats Off," a Bicentennial musical to be presented Nov. 21 at the Washington Junior Middle School auditorium.

Mrs. Woody Hayes is speaker for Lioness Club meeting

Mrs. Ann Hayes, wife of Ohio State coach Woody Hayes, entertained the Lioness Club when members and guests met for a dinner-meeting at the Washington Country Club. A very personable and vivacious person, she related humor is what 'keeps a family going.' She said it was not easy being married to Woody Hayes, but compared her life as a coach's wife much to that of any wife. Mrs. Hayes related many stories that have happened in her travels and in her speaking engagements. According to Mrs. Hayes, one of the great joys of being a coach's wife is knowing the players and their families. "I had so much fun climbing the mountain of life and I am going to have fun going down. If we can't laugh a little we would cry ourselves to death the way things are going," she said. Mrs. Hayes closed by standing back and cheering two very important words to her, "Go Bucks."

Preceding the dinner, the group sang "America" followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. Mrs. Robert Kunz gave the invocation.

Centerpieces of fall arrangements of multi-colored candles in graduated sizes fitted into pieces of barn siding and surrounded by gourds, Indian corn and bittersweet decorated the tables. Favors of Buckeyes tied with scarlet and gray ribbon were found at each place. The members, dressed in some apparel of scarlet and gray added to the evening's atmosphere. The committee composed of Mrs. Dick Junk, Mrs. Kunz, Mrs. Donald Anderson and Mrs. Robert Leeth, was assisted by board members Mrs. Emerson Marting, Mrs. Bart Mahoney and Mrs. Wiley Witherspoon.

Lioness Tail Twisters for the evening were Mrs. Earl Hartley and Mrs. Emerson Marting, dressed in racoon coats and scarlet and gray toboggans. Ohio State pennants and miniature megaphones completed their outfits, appropriate for the cheers, songs and contests which they conducted. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. James McCoy, Mrs. Robert Antoine and Mrs. Bart Mahoney.

A brief business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Ralph Hyer. She welcomed all the members and their guests, 120 in all, to a fun evening. A check was presented to Mrs. Hayes, which she said will be donated to the OSU Development Fund, directed to the sight program a national project of the Lions Clubs.

The guests attending from the newly-organized Bloomingburg Lioness Club participated in the singing lesson of the song, "Lions Roar."

Singers in the area participating in the "Messiah" are reminded that there will be only four more regularly scheduled rehearsals before the Fayette County Choral Society's Concert in Grace United Methodist Church on Sunday, Dec. 7 at 3:30 p.m. Rehearsals are held at 7:30 p.m. on Mondays in First Presbyterian Church, and those planning to perform are urged to attend the remaining rehearsals.

Richard Patton of the Ohio Dominican College music faculty, of Columbus, is directing the chorus. Mrs. Donald Schwaigert is the pianist, with Miss Elaine Stookey assisting, and Mrs. Wayne Spengler will preside at the organ. A chamber orchestra of musicians will also aid in the performance.

In the Choral Society are members of well-trained singers from Fayette County schools, churches and musical organizations which promises an inspiring performance of Handel's "Messiah."

The Legend of the Sand Dollar

While the Sand Dollar is one of the most widely known and popular of all shells, few are aware of the pretty little legend attached to it.

Legend has it that these strange shells tell the story of Christ's suffering and his glory.

The five holes represent the five wounds of Christ. On the front the Easter Lily - its center, a five pointed star representing the Star of Bethlehem which led the shepherds from afar. On the back the outline of the Christmas Poinsettia reminds us of His birthday. When the shell is broken open, five Doves of Peace and Good Will appear.

Because of this religious legend, this fascinating creature of the sea is often referred to as the Holy Ghost shell.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Cosby was in town. So he fell by Broadway's famed Stage Delicatessen for eats, an interview and to collect a sum in excess of $2 from a pal who erred betting him on the Rams-Eagles game.

"Que sera, sera," the comedian chortled as he counted the receipts and his pal managed a pained smile. "What will be, will be."

He ordered matzoh crackers, spinach and green beans to sooth a mildly upset stomach, urged your observer not to mention this lest his younger fans consider it a balanced diet, and began being interviewed.

The topic was "Cos—The Bill Cosby Comedy Hour," an ABC special he taped here this week. It will air Monday night and may become a weekly series in January. It is rumored the show will come from New York.

"You'd better believe it," said Cosby. Asked why, he launched into a line one often hears these days about the ample supply of fresh young talent in singing and comedy now working in Gotham.

We mentioned that you can find the same fresh talent in Los Angeles.

"Not like you have here," said Cosby, who got his big break in 1963 at a Greenwich Village cafe and later starred in movies, CBS' "I Spy," an NBC series about a school teacher and a CBS comedy-variety series that folded in midseason.

"I'll take you to a place called Catch a Rising Star," he said, citing one of several cabarets that have sprouted here recently. "You'll see in one evening 25 comedians, 25 singers."

Laws against coal ripped by group

CINCINNATI (AP) — Representatives of the coal and inland water industry hurled broadsides against the federal government and courts on environmental issues as the 80th annual Ohio Valley Improvement Association conference opened here Thursday.

Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, said that anticoal legislation affecting both underground and strip mining have pushed the industry to the wall financially while coal is the country's only plentiful energy source.

OVIA President Harry M. Mack charged a federal injunction against replacing a Mississippi River dam lock at Alton, Ill. is forcing up the price of coal to public utilities which are passing on the costs to consumers.

The OVIA was founded in 1895 to gain support for social, industrial and economic development of the Ohio Valley from New York to St. Louis.

Bagge told the OVIA that the coal industry is under siege by environmentalists, "a confused government and a misinformed press."

"Our struggle at the present time is not to thrive, but just to survive and that is shocking."

He said the coal industry has no hope of more lenient laws from Congress at present.

"There's mass hysteria. Opinion is just too polarized," Bagge said.

He accused Washington politicians of "mass political irrationality" resulting in no national energy policy.

Bagge praised President Ford for vetoing the stripmining bill, but he said a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency decision against allowing intermittent air control systems in mines has hurt mine production.

"There was a time when we could accept a static coal industry, but no more," Bagge said. "We are past the time when we could look upon the coal industry as the provider of snowmen's eyes."

Jaycees schedule bosses night banquet

The date for the annual bosses night banquet was scheduled at the regular November meeting of the Washington C.H. Jaycees.

The bosses night banquet, at which outstanding community leaders will be honored, will be held Jan. 21 at the Washington Country Club. The banquet will be held during the annual "Jaycee Week" celebration. Other plans for Jaycee Week include a "radio day" activity at WCHO-Radio and displays in the downtown business district.

A number of other upcoming projects were discussed during the meeting including the annual Pony League football banquet which will be held Saturday night in the Washington C.H. Middle School cafeteria.

It was announced that Christmas trees will be arriving here Nov. 30 for the Jaycee sale. The trees will go on sale Dec. 1 at the Seaway parking lot.

The Washington C.H. Board of Education has granted the Jaycees the use of the Middle School gymnasium for a big-time wrestling show on Nov. 22. A ticket pre-sale will be conducted for the four-bout event which will feature Flying Fred Curry.

The Jaycees bicentennial committee will be sponsoring a stag party Nov. 21 at the Jaycee clubhouse, CCC-Highway-W. All proceeds from the stag party will be used to purchase fireworks for the annual Fourth of July celebration in Fayette County.

It was announced during the meeting that Ernie Wilson, Larry Cruea and Dale Butler have completed requirements for "Sparkplug" awards. Presidential awards were presented to David Loudner, chairman of the Halloween parade and celebration; Joe Burbage, as chairman of the Halloween party; John Gault, as party co-chairman, and Wilson, as chairman of the Jaycee membership night.

In other matters, Mike Cruea was appointed chairman of the Christmas light judging contest, and Ken Maxwell and Glenn Riley were inducted as new members.

Kroger given 5-15 years

CINCINNATI (AP)—A civil engineer, who kidnaped the daughter of a Taft Broadcasting Corp. executive for money to save his business, today began serving a 5-15 year jail sentence.

Clifford Kroger, 38, a former Cincinnati who moved his family of six children to Winter Park, Fla., was refused probation by Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William S. Mathews.

Kroger was returned from Lima State Hospital Thursday where he had been confined since his conviction in January. The mental hospital report said that Kroger "can no longer benefit from hospitalization."

Kroger was convicted of kidnaping Allison Mechem, 4, daughter of Charles Mechem, chairman of the board of Taft Broadcasting Corp., from in front of her home, Sept. 29, 1974. The child was discovered the next day in a nearby motel. She was unharmed and no effort was made to collect the more than $100,000 ransom money.

"I've changed a lot of my philosophies, I think, where I was wrong before," Kroger told Judge Mathews, requesting probation.

"I've been able to look a little deeper into myself," Kroger said he no longer needed group therapy and wanted to return to his wife and children.

"Because of the seriousness of the charge and the offense itself, yours is not a proper case for consideration of probation," said Judge Mathews.

The first library in Ohio was opened in 1796 at Belpre, and the second in Cincinnati in 1802. Perhaps the most famous, however, was the third founded in 1803 at Amesville in Athens County, known as the Coon Skin Library because furs were bartered for books there.

Three injury-accidents probed

Two injury-accidents, one involving a pedestrian who was struck by an auto were reported by Washington C.H. police along with three additional accidents occurring on Thursday. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported one injury-accident and four traffic mishaps which involved no injury.

POLICE

THURSDAY, 11:47 a.m. — A car driven by Linda J. Hurley, 26, Jeffersonville, struck Clara L. Markley, 60, of 800 Duke Plaza, while she was crossing the intersection of Court and North streets. Police reported Mrs. Markley claimed injury, but employees at Fayette Memorial Hospital reported she was not treated. Ms. Hurley was charged with failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian in a crosswalk.

12:15 p.m. — An accident involving cars driven by Connie S. Hill, 29, Jeffersonville, and Sally A. Leeth, 23, Circleville, occurred in the 300 block of E. Market Street when the Hill auto pulled from an alley into the path of the Leeth car. Ms. Hill was charged with failure to yield right of way by police. A passenger in the Leeth auto, Betty M. Jones, 41, of 220 Bell Ave., claimed injury at the accident scene and was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

4 p.m. — A rear end collision involving cars driven by Gary D. Scott, 28, of 1106 Yeoman St., and Florence A. Ausman, 48, Greenfield, occurred at the intersection of E. Paint and North streets. Police charged Scott with failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

3:38 p.m. — A car belonging to Carl R. Elberfield, 426 Rawlings Street, struck a second car owned by Elberfield when the driver of the first auto, Marcia E. Elberfield, 26, of 523 W. Elm St., pulled into Elberfield's driveway and forgot to put the auto in park. It rolled out of the drive, into the street and struck the second, parked Elberfield auto. Police reported minor damage.

A hit-skip driver struck a truck belonging to Mary Buckingham, Bainbridge, while parked in the Diamond International parking lot on Kenskill Avenue sometime Thursday afternoon. Police are investigating.

SHERIFF

FRIDAY, 10:06 a.m. — A Washington C.H. man was injured when he swerved his pickup truck to avoid striking an auto driven by Joseph L. Wilcox, 54, Jeffersonville, which had pulled from a stop sign at the intersection of Staunton-Sugar Grove and Armbrust roads into his path. David Cockerill, 32, Rt. 1, applied his brakes and swerved but skidded on wet pavement, striking a tree. He was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital. Sheriff's deputies cited Wilcox for failure to yield right of way.

9:20 a.m. — A Miami Trace school bus driven by Wilma Behnken, 42, New Holland, struck a parked auto owned by Debra Woodruff, 26, New Vienna, while making a turn in the Staunton

Elementary School parking lot. Deputies reported the rear bus tire rubbed against the Woodruff auto, creating very minor damage.

7:30 a.m. — A car driven by Harold E. Hixon, 16, of 4920 CCC-Highway-W, went out of control on Jasper Coil Road, four-tenths of a mile from the U.S. 22 intersection and struck a fence belonging to Ola Bush, 629 Leesburg Ave.

THURSDAY, 6:45 a.m. — A truck driven by Harold R. Gibson, 22, Grove City, struck a parked car belonging to Jane D. O'Pry, Rt. 5, at the Fayette County Childrens' Home, Ohio 38-N. Damage was slight.

9:30 p.m. — A car driven by Gary L. Leisure, 18, of 240 Curtis St., traveled off Belle Avenue near the Ohio 41 intersection and struck a parked car belonging to Karen S. Gillenwater, 244 Belle Ave. Sheriff's deputies cited Leisure for driving while intoxicated, driving with a suspended driver's license and resisting arrest. Damage was moderate to both autos.

Fresh Bangladesh upheaval returns Rahman to power

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Bangladesh had another upheaval in its top government echelon today as the army chief ousted four days ago announced he was running the country as chief martial law administrator.

Radio Bangladesh said thousands thronged the streets of Dacca, the capital, to cheer the "heroic comeback" of Maj. Gen. Ziaur Rahman.

There was no mention of Abu Sadat Mohammed Sayem, the chief justice of the supreme court who was sworn in as president Thursday; his predecessor, Khondakar Mushtaque hmed, who became president when Sheik Mujibur Rahman was murdered last August, or of Maj. Gen. Khalid Musharaf, who replaced Gen. Rahman as army chief of staff Monday.

Gen. Rahman himself went on the air and said:

"My dear countrymen, assalam alaikum (peace be with you). I am Maj. Gen. Ziaur speaking. In the present situation, I have been requested by the people of Bangladesh, the army, the navy, the air force, the Bangladesh Rifles, police, ansars (home guards) and others to take over for the time being as the chief martial law administrator and chief of the Bangladesh army."

He said government offices, the courts, shops and business offices, airports and factories would all resume normal operations.

But communications with Dacca were still uncertain, and a full account of the events this week has not emerged.

The crisis began Monday when commercial communications were cut and the Dacca airport was closed to traffic. Radio Bangladesh announced Gen. Rahman's replacement by Musharaf, his deputy.

On intoxication charge

Dayton man arrested here for 132nd time

A Dayton man was arrested by city police for the 132nd time during the last 39 years on a charge of public intoxication.

Police Specialist William Robinson reported the police department received a call at approximately midnight complaining about a man causing a disturbance in front of the Martha Washington Shop on E. Court Street. Spec. Robinson investigated and found Daniel G. Stapleton, 71, in what appeared to be a semi-intoxicated condition and advised him to go back to his Dayton home. Robinson explained Stapleton was a transient who frequently visited Washington C.H. and every time has been arrested for disorderly conduct by intoxication. His record of 131 arrests on drunkenness charges dates back to 1936.

Robinson was again summoned to the same E. Court Street location a half hour later where Stapleton was found with two half-full bottles of wine on his person and allegedly in an intoxicated state. He was arrested for the 132nd time and incarcerated in the city jail.

Friday morning Stapleton was found guilty of intoxication by acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Robert L. Simpson and fined $100 and court costs. Judge Simpson waived the full time and costs on the condition Stapleton leave Washington C.H. and return to his Dayton home.

Wilmington man hurt in one-car collision

A Wilmington man was hospitalized following a one-car crash on U.S. 35, one-tenth of a mile west of I-71, at 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

Ohio Highway Patrol officer Loren Butcher said Arthur E. Shewalter, 48, of Wilmington, was admitted to Fayette Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the crash which completely demolished his 1962 model auto.

Butcher said Shewalter was west-bound on U.S. 35 at an apparent high rate of speed when he traveled off the right side of the roadway on a slight left curve. The driver lost control traveled back onto the highway for a short distance and then swerved off the right side of the road again jumping a guardrail, became airborne for 40 feet across a creek, struck a fence owned by Larry Garringer, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, hit a tree and overturned three times.

The driver was not thrown from the vehicle, according to the report.

The accident is still under investigation.

Butcher also investigated a three-vehicle collision on Ohio 729, one-half mile north of U.S. 35 at 6:04 p.m. Thursday.

The Ohio Highway Patrol officer reported that the collision occurred when an auto driven by Daniel K. Dalton, 26, of Sabina, was southbound on Ohio 729 and attempted to pass a truck driven by Myron C. Creamer, 58, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, and a tractor operated by Clyde A. Welsh, 65, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville.

After passing the truck driven by Creamer, Dalton met a northbound semi tractor-trailer rig and swerved striking Welsh's farm tractor.

The accident is still under investigation. There were no injuries.

MAKING A LIST — Although Ray Downing, left, and Gene Bass are checking the list a second time, they are not trying to find who's been naughty or nice. They are reviewing recent wholesale purchases by Craig's department store. Downing, the former store manager, has been named merchandising manager of Craig's and the People's department store in Delaware. Bass is assuming the store manager's post.

Downing becomes merchandising chief

New store manager named

Former Craig's Department store manager Ray Downing has been named merchandising manager of Merrill Kaufman's two-store operation.

In addition to the Craig's store, located at 131 E. Court St., Kaufman owns the People's department store in Delaware. Downing will act as purchasing agent for both outlets.

Formerly employed at the store in Delaware, Downing and his wife Linda came to Washington C.H. shortly after Kaufman purchased the local store in 1971. He was Kaufman's first Washington C.H. manager and has served in that capacity for the past four years.

The move constitutes a modification in the operation of the stores. Formerly, Downing handled the purchasing for the store here while Gene Bass, assistant manager in Delaware, handled the buying for the store there. Downing will now have that responsibility for both stores.

Bass, who is married and has two daughters, will assume management of Craig's. He and his wife Linda will be seeking a home in this area. He has been assistant manager at the People's store since 1970.

When the reshuffling is complete, Downing and Bass, both natives of Delaware will reside in Washington C.H. while Kaufman, and his wife, who were raised here, will be living in Delaware.

Kaufman, married to the former Ann Washburn, has two sons.

He had purchased the People's store in 1962 and obtained the store here nine years later.

Misconduct alleged in suit filed against local lawyer

A suit has been filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court by the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home, 509 Washington Ave., against Washington C.H. attorney James A. Kiger alleging professional misconduct.

Ned Kinzer, Jr., owner operator of the funeral home and ambulance service, states that following a fatal accident involving one of his ambulance vehicles in March, 1974 he retained the defendant to investigate and to represent his interests in the case.

According to the plaintiff, Kiger obtained releases from Larry A. Exline, of Bloomingburg, husband of the deceased victim, relieving the ambulance of all responsibility for the accident.

In the petition, Kinzer states that the defendant has refused to deliver such releases to the plaintiff and that Exline has filed a multi-million dollar lawsuit in Madison County Common Pleas Court against the funeral home.

The plaintiff charges that if the defendant did not obtain the releases in question, then he negligently represented the funeral home.

The plaintiff further states that the defendant later represented Exline in interests adverse to the interest of the funeral home.

The plaintiff asks that judgment be rendered ordering the defendant to turn over any and all releases to Kinzer and his attorneys, and that the defendant be held responsible for any and all judgments rendered against the funeral home on behalf of Exline.

Exline's wife Karen died in an accident while enroute in a Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance to a Columbus hospital to give birth.

According to original reports the ambulance was operating a flashing light and siren as it passed through Mount Sterling and a car pulled in front of the vehicle. The driver reportedly swerved to avoid a collision with the car and struck a tree, killing Mrs. Exline and injuring the other passengers, including her husband.

The child was never born, and Exline's suit seeks damages for wrongful death of his wife, injuries to himself, and loss of the child.

Akron co-op bankrupt

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the dwindling assets of an Akron business sold to meet the debts that have driven the company into bankruptcy.

Bankruptcy Court Judge Harold White declared Co-Op Enterprises of Akron bankrupt Wednesday after its attorney told him the firm owed $2.8 million and couldn't pay it.

The attorney said the company founded by local labor unions in the late 1940s has assets of $559,000 but owes 300 companies as well as the tax agencies at every governmental level.

The firm's president and board chairman, Ray Conner, was to be questioned by the court later this month about his role in the firm's failure.

Labor leaders have contended Conner mismanaged the company that once operated seven food stores, six optical outlets, a funeral home and a hearing aid center.

"Some people misused our trust and our welfare," Phil Leonard said Thursday. Leonard, executive secretary and treasurer of the Akron Labor Council, added that he was "sorry for all the people and labor unions who lost out."

Underground railroad activity community project in B'burg

BLOOMINGBURG — Bloomingburg was the center of the underground railroad (route over which runaway slaves traveled in an effort to reach Canada) activity in Fayette County during the 1800s.

The leader of underground railroad activity in the Bloomingburg was the Rev. William Dickey, a Presbyterian minister who moved to the community from Washington C.H. in 1817. He helped to establish the Presbyterian Church in Bloomingburg which still exists.

William Edwards, who left South Carolina because he was opposed to slavery, moved to Bloomingburg where he found many people like Rev. Dickey who wanted to assist the slaves. Edwards is known to have been a conductor (a person who helped transport slaves along the underground railroad system) on the underground railroad in the Bloomingburg area.

Helping slaves in Bloomingburg was a community project and attracted a number of residents. Not only did Rev. Dickey and members of the Presbyterian Church hide runaway slaves, but the Methodist Church members concealed the slaves in the church parsonage and the church building.

Several places in Bloomingburg are noted for being stations on the underground railroad as they harbored slaves time after time. James Alexander constructed a large home with a tunnel from the basement to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks. The home, located at 119 Midland Ave., still stands and is owned by Dr. Donald E. Mossbarger, a Bloomingburg veterinarian.

A home constructed by Adam Steele contained a spare room under the front room to hide slaves. The front room had a trap door in the floor.

Steele's home is still standing near Bloomingburg popularly referred to as the Parrott home and is now owned by Bruce Von Barga.

Another home near Bloomingburg used extensively to hide runaway slaves was the William H. Eustick residence and is now occupied by Willard Bitzer.

The home now owned by Donald Pollock on Ohio 38-N was also a well-known station on the underground railroad.

The slave masters were often in hot pursuit of the runaways and many narrow escapes prevailed. At the station owned by George Stuart (now the home of Donald Pollock) the slave master was so close behind the runaway slaves that Stuart had to rush a mother on toward Canada and keep her young son, who was too ill to travel any further, at the station. Stuart raised the youth, who later became a prominent surgeon in Kentucky.

A popular food for runaway slaves was samp, a hot mixture of corn bread and milk which was economical and easy to prepare.

Moving the runaways from one station to another was always dangerous and the slaves were usually moved at night. There was always the danger that the runaway slaves might be spotted passing an unfriendly house and to help solve this problem many conductors and stations masters had saddles with double stirrups. This allowed the conductor to ride the horse with the slave seated behind him and as they approached a questionable house the runaway could put his feet in the extra stirrup and stand beside the conductor on the opposite side of the horse, making it appear as if only one rider was on the horse.

The route of the underground railroad seems to have been from Kentucky to Manchester and Ripley near the Ohio River. From Ohio River communities, the route branched to Sinking Springs and Cynthiana, where one route split and continued to Bainbridge while the other led to New Petersburg. The line into Bainbridge continued to South Salem, Roxabelle, Frankfort and Good Hope. An alternate line from Bainbridge to Good Hope traveled through Greenfield and from Good Hope the line went to Bloomingburg with an alternate line through Washington C.H. The line from Bloomingburg went north to the Madison Mills and White Oak communities.

Traffic Court

A charge of driving while intoxicated against a Sabina man was changed to reckless operation during Thursday afternoon's court session conducted by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

The lesser charge became effective when Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy David L. Souther failed to show up in court for the second time because he was on vacation and evidence

Non-traffic cases aired

A court case involving the possibility of physical harm to another, a local man charged with disorderliness and a dismissal constituted the non-traffic cases Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge Reed M. Winegardner dealt with Thursday afternoon.

Thurman Brown, 38, of 7027 Ohio 41-N, was arrested by city police Nov. 6 for giving Vicki Brown just cause to believe he would physically harm her. Judge Winegardner fined Brown $250 and court costs with $100 suspended and sentenced him to serve 30 days in jail with the full jail time suspended providing he be on one year good behavior.

James E. Ellars Jr., 33, of 410 E. Temple St., was arrested by city police on a private warrant for disorderly conduct filed by Thurman Brown. Judge Winegardner fined Ellars $100 and court costs and suspended $50 of the fine providing Ellars be on good behavior for one year.

A charge of assault brought against Keith Evans, 24, of 1148 Gregg St., by Barbara Evans was dismissed by Judge Winegardner upon the request of the plaintiff who in turn paid the costs.

The luggage arrived Tuesday on an Allegheny Airlines flight from Columbus and was opened by airline employees Thursday after it went unclaimed for 48 hours.

Inside, officials said, were two beer bottles containing a liquid or powder. They said the bottles were packed in plastic foam and wired to timing devices.

The local airline manager said the employees immediately notified police, the FBI and the sheriff's office.

Police cordoned off the section of the airport where the suitcase was located. Some flights were delayed 20 minutes while the suitcase was removed.

Brewers to sign Grammas to pact as new manager

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers called a 11 a.m., CST, news conference today to announce appointment of Alex Grammas, long considered one of the major leagues' best baseball minds and coaches, as manager.

Grammas, 48, who has coached for the world champion Cincinnati Reds since 1970, flew here from his Birmingham, Ala., home Thursday to meet with Brewers' president Bud Selig and General Manager Jim Baumer.

ALEX GRAMMAS

"He has not signed yet," Selig said late Thursday. "Jim and I expect to spend the better part of the night talking with Alex."

Hank Aaron, the Brewers' 41-year-old designated hitter and baseball's career home run record holder, had been considered the No. 1 candidate when the Brewers fired Del Crandall as manager on the last day of the past season. However, it is believed the club later removed Aaron from consideration by mutual agreement.

Aaron and the Brewers jointly announced late Thursday that the fading slugger will honor the final year of his $250,000 a year playing contract in 1976 and then join the club's front office as a vice president.

The Brewers disdained common practice by not giving extensive consideration to former major league managers to succeed Crandall.

Public relations director Dick Hackett identified Aaron, Roy Hartsfield, Joe Altobelli, Billy Hunter and Don Zimmer, along with Grammas, as candidates.

Only Zimmer of the group has managed in the majors, having directed San Diego to last place finishes in the National League West in 1972 and 1973. Zimmer currently coaches for the Boston Red Sox.

Hunter is a Baltimore Orioles' coach.

Altobelli, interviewed by the Brewers at Covington, Ky., near Cincinnati during the World Series, manages the Orioles' Rochester farm team. Hartsfield managed Hawaii to the Pacific Coast League pennant this year.

Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson said in Cincinnati Thursday the Brewers had been granted permission to talk with Grammas.

Alf Van Hoose, sports editor of the Birmingham News, had reported earlier Thursday the Brewers would announce signing of Grammas to a multiyear contract today. Selig's policy has been to hire managers on a year-to-year basis.

Grammas, a slick-fielding infielder as a player, coached for the Pittsburgh Pirates from 1965 until joining the Reds. He managed Fort Worth of the Texas League to a 51-89 record and sixth place finish in 1964.

A Mississippi State University graduate, he began his career with Muskegon of the Central League in 1949.

He played for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1954 and '55, was traded to Cincinnati in 1956 and played there through 1958, when he was traded back to St. Louis. He finished his playing career with the Chicago Cubs in 1963. His lifetime batting average for 2,073 games was .247.

Championship rests on Trace outcome

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald Sports Editor

The 1975 South Central Ohio League championship race will be decided tonight and the outcome of only two games on this week's five-game slate will figure in which team takes home the league crown.

Circleville will visit Hillsboro and the 8-1 Tigers should have little if any trouble downing the Indians putting the spotlight on the Miami Trace-Washington C.H. game which will be a more evenly matched contest.

A Miami Trace win will give the Panthers a title, but a loss would all but ruin any championship hopes barring a miracle in Hillsboro.

Other games will have Unioto traveling to Wilmington, Madison Plains visiting Southeastern and Greenfield hosting Adena.

WASH. C.H. AT MIAMI TRACE

Whether one chooses to call the intracounty game a "grudge match" or not, is irrelevant to the situation. There is obviously no love lost between these two league powerhouses which is what would make it a hard-fought game, regardless of the fact that the league title is on the line.

Court House has a stubborn defense that is rated tops in the league and the Panthers have the SCOL's most potent offense. This should make for a classic matchup when Trace has the ball, but when the Blue Lions take over the Panther defense should have the edge.

The Panthers have been known to make some turnovers and that is exactly what the Blue Lions thrive on giving Court House an edge.

Both teams have much at stake besides the mythical Fayette County championship trophy. A Blue Lion loss would most probably drop them to fourth place in the league and a Panther loss would drop them to second.

It all boils down to a close matchup, but look for Panther quarterback Art Schlichter to move his team to a one touchdown victory.

CIRCLEVILLE AT HILLSBORO

All Circleville has to do is run over the Indians for their ninth victory of the season, which really won't be much of a task considering Hillsboro's tendency to be run over, and wait for the outcome at Miami Trace.

Biff Bumgarner should have a field day carrying the ball through a less than stout Indian defense while the Tiger defense shuts down the two Hillsboro threats, Ken Captain and Steve Kelch.

Circleville could actually send half their squad to Fayette County to watch the only real deciding contest for the league crown — the Tigers by at least three touchdowns.

UNIOTO AT WILMINGTON

Unioto has looked far from brilliant even in their only league win against Greenfield. Last week they fumbled eight times helping Hillsboro to a 35-0 win and this week they won't even have to fumble to lose by about the same score.

Wilmington needs a win to finish third in the league in case of a Washington C.H. loss and that will provide enough incentive to keep the Hurricane up for the contest — look for another big Unioto loss.

ADENA AT GREENFIELD

The only thing these two teams have in common is that they both lost to Unioto which shouldn't have any real bearing on the outcome.

The once class 'A' powerhouse from Frankfort has been having troubles lately, but so have the injury riddled McClain Tigers. Quarterback Kevin Kensinger should be back for this season, non-league, finale and he will be enough to put some points on the board.

The Greenfield defense should have little trouble keeping Adena from paydirt.

It looks like another shutout for the Greenfield defenders and the point margin will depend on which Tigers can stay healthy long enough to score.

PLAINS AT SOUTHEASTERN

The Golden Eagles should actually finish out the season with three wins as they face a team that would make some SCOL reserve teams look tough.

Southeastern has been kicked around by some fellow class A teams and now it's Madison Plains' chance.

The Golden Eagles Jackie Maggard will show why he is one of the best runners in the SCOL when his line finally has little trouble opening holes — Plains by three touchdowns.

Crum sees no Miami letdown against winless West Michigan

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dick Crum, Miami (Ohio) football coach yet to swallow defeat in a Mid-American Conference game, says no problem of a letdown should arise Saturday.

The opportunity is there. The 15th Redskins, riding the crest of a 14-game MAC winning streak, are heavily favored to keep host Western Michigan winless.

"We will have plenty of motivation because a victory would mean the realization of several of our goals," said Crum, who replaced Bill Mallory at the Miami helm last season.

Miami's fifth straight conference victory this season would clinch the 1975 crown and a spot in the Tangerine Bowl berth. The Redskins also would be the second team in history to grab three straight MAC championships.

The Toledo teams of 1969, 1970 and 1971 achieved the feat of three conference crowns in a row.

Elliot Uzelac, winless in nine tries as Western Michigan's rookie coach, marvels over Miami's defenders.

"A good example of their defense came in their victory at Bowling Green," Uzelac said of the Redskins' 20-17 verdict two weeks ago. "At halftime, Miami had just three first downs, but the score was tied at 10-10 because the defense forced two Bowling Green mistakes."

A handful of other contenders needs Miami losses in the Mid-American leader's last two games to keep alive flickering title hopes.

Should the Redskins stumble twice at Western Michigan and Kent State, newcomers Central Michigan and Northern Illinois could win the championship.

Northern Illinois (2-1-0) entertains Toledo (2-4-0) while Central Michigan (3-1-1) dwells on outside competition at Western Illinois.

And if Miami loses twice and Northern Illinois and Central Michigan bow once apiece, Bowling Green and Ball State would have shots at co-championships.

Bowling Green, beaten consecutive weeks by Bowling Green and Ball State after an unbeaten start, travels to dangerous Ohio University 3-2-1. Ball State visits Akron for a nonconference night assignment.

Nonconference afternoon games

EX-PANTHER GRIDDER — Miami Trace graduate Tom Reisinger has been seeing limited action at center for the Otterbein College grid squad this season. The 6-0, 197-pound Fayette County native is a freshman, who is primarily playing for the reserve team, but has prospects to see increased varsity action in future years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Welby Reisinger.

send Marshall to Kent State and Illinois State to Eastern Michigan.

Meanwhile, the only undefeated Ohio teams remaining, 8-0-0 Ohio State and Wittenberg, are on the road Saturday.

The top-ranked Buckeyes visit Illinois in the Big Ten, where Ohio State is heading toward a Nov. 22 showdown at coleading Michigan.

Wittenberg, the nation's fifth ranked small college powerhouse, goes to Capital in a meaningless Ohio Conference Blue Division game. The Tigers, defending league champions, already own a berth in the OC title contest Nov. 15 against Muskingum.

Cincinnati (5-3-) faces its biggest hurdle of the season, a home date with 16th ranked Maryland. Dayton (3-6-0) has a night game at traditional rival Louisville.

Ohio's teams are out of the Presidents' Conference race, which will be settled Saturday when Bethany visits Washington and Jefferson.

Hanover can wrap up the Hoosier-Buckeye crown by running its conference record to 7-0-0 at third-place Taylor (5-2-0). Wilmington (41-1), in second place, plays Grove City in a "wild card" game that counts in the standings.

Elsewhere Saturday, Villanova is at Youngstown, Ashland at Evansville, Central Methodist at Central State, Baldwin-Wallace at Wooster, Heidelberg at Otterbein, Kenyon at Centre, Washington and Jefferson at Denison, Muskingum at Marietta, Mount Union at Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio Northern at Alma, Oberlin at John Carroll, Earlham at Defiance, Findlay at Bluffton, Grove City at Wilmington and Hiram at Case Western Reserve.

Cavaliers top Hawks

By The Associated Press

Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons and Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch agree on one thing: Cleveland's Jim Brewer.

"Jim Brewer came to us," Fitzsimmons said after the Cavs beat Atlanta in a National Basketball Association game. "He has speed and quickness. He was their No. 1 draft choice and that is what he is supposed to do."

Fitch responded in kind: "Brewer did a good job for us. That's his job — to rebound and play the defense."

With Brewer scoring 16 points and grabbing 11 rebounds, the Cavaliers defeated the Hawks 113-108.

In other NBA games Thursday night, Washington downed Seattle 110-100 and Golden State crushed New York 111-96.

In the only American Basketball Association game played, Denver outlasted Utah 111-105.

New NFL teams seek WFL players

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's two newest teams — Seattle and Tampa — may find the nucleus of their squads in the remains of the now-defunct World Football League.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the league's stocking formula for the expansion teams hopefully will be worked out Friday. But he also said both Seattle and Tampa could immediately sign any qualified former WFL players now for the 1976 season when the two new teams begin play.

"All 28 teams can sign WFL players for next year," the commissioner said. "As long as the two new teams are being permitted to sign them, we felt the players should have the right of choice of the other 26 teams as well."

Rozelle said the NFL owners failed in Thursday's all-day meeting to finalize a plan on stocking the new teams. "We've got the mechanics pretty well set, but not the numbers," he said.

The commissioner said the clubs had different ideas on putting together the new teams.

"Those clubs that don't have many draft choices say 'Let's give them a break in the draft. That's how you build a club.' Those clubs that have plenty of draft choices want to do it a different way."

Both teams will be stocked in January before the Pro Bowl in New Orleans.

Rozelle said the procedure for signing WFL players would be to have the players request clearance through the NFL office.

"Once we determine that a player is free, we notify everyone at the same time that he has cleared and is available to be signed. The players or their agents must request this clearance. We will ask for whatever documents we need," he said.

Rozelle also said that in the cases where players signed with clubs other than those holding their NFL rights, the two teams involved would have to work out compensation. "Hopefully, they'd do it right away so that it wouldn't come to me."

The NFL Thursday cleared one former WFL player, tackle Chris Morris of San Antonio. Morris, a 6-foot-3, 250-pound former Indiana University lineman, was a seventh-round draft choice in 1971 by the Minnesota Vikings. He signed as a free agent with Cleveland and played parts of the 1972 and 1973 seasons with the Browns, missing most of the 1973 season with a shoulder injury.

Morris signed with the WFL after being cut by Cleveland in 1974.

NFL teams originally had been barred from signing WFL players on the premise that a team could buy a championship by signing available talent. That plan was overturned Wednesday by a federal judge in Minnesota and Rozelle said he believed the 10 players who had taken the class action in that suit would be among the first cleared for signing by NFL teams.

Freddie Jacobs sets new prep grid marks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Freddie Jacobs of Cincinnati Wyoming, Ohio's newest prep rushing sensation, is showing no mercy on his brother's football records.

The 5-foot-10, 170-pound senior halfback has broken six of his brother Norm's marks, including 2,009 yards in one season and 3,274 yards for his career.

Jacobs a week ago rolled up 305 yards in just 30 carries against Cincinnati Greenhills.

CHECK OUT APPENDICITIS
NEW YORK (AP) — Surgeons at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, are challenging the standard doctrine for suspected appendicitis: "When in doubt, cut it out," reports Medical World News.
Instead, says the magazine, their position has become, "When in doubt, check it out." This checking, the surgeons report, has lowered their "opened-by-mistake" incidence from 15 per cent to below 5 per cent.
This policy involved children at the outset but is now being informally extended to include adults.

The Long Convalescence

My sister had a gall bladder operation two months ago. She still has not recovered from it. I know so many people who have had surgery and are able to go back to work in a few weeks. Do you think she could be deliberately extending her convalescence?

Miss B. M. J., W. Va.

Dear Miss J.: There is always a possibility that a patient can, for psychological reasons, deliberately extend the normal period of expected convalescence.

Yet before you attribute your sister's reaction to some psychological or social reason every possible physical cause should be explored to explain her delayed recuperation.

There is no way to generalize about how soon people will recover their stamina after an operation. The elderly, for example, may sometimes recoup their energies far more rapidly than a younger person.

The reason for this is that there are so many variables that determine the speed of their return to health. The general physical condition, the age of the patient, the severity of the surgery, the kind and duration of anesthesia and the possible complications all determine the convalescence.

It is true that the emotional state of people is also a most important one of these equalents.

Can watching television for long periods of time be harmful to children's eyes?

Mrs. P. N., Iowa

Dear Mrs. N.: This problem has been studied by responsible manufacturers in conjunction with eye specialists and other physicians.

There does not seem to be any scientific information that leads us to believe that there is direct harm to the eyes, even with rather long periods of television viewing.

This is true only if there is no individual problem for which the doctor has specifically advised against such viewing.

Educators believe that the greatest harm is the precious time that is wasted on inferior programs — time that might be better spent in reading worthwhile books.

Would-be priest. held for theft

CINCINNATI (AP)—A man from Baden Baden, Germany, who has been receiving free lodging at churches and monasteries while posing as a Roman Catholic priest, was scheduled for arraignment today on charges of stealing a stamp collection, clothing and coins worth $15,000 from a rectory.

The Rev. Carl Piepenbreier, administrator of St. Mary Church in Cincinnati did a little detective work after he discovered the collections and priest garb missing and found the man in a Kentucky monastery, with the help of Trappist monks.

Police report that Klass Eitel has been charged with two counts of grand theft after he was arrested while trying to seek sanctuary at the Gethsemane Monastery in Kentucky.

Police said Eitel, posing as a priest arrived at the St. Mary's Church and stayed the weekend while pretending to be a priest.

"He was very knowledgeable," said Father Piepenbreier. "He even knew some of my European friends."

Police report that by Monday the would-be priest was gone, with three sets of clerical and the stamps and coins.

The Rev. Piepenbreier told police he made some checks with some of his friends around the state and discovered Eitel had been staying at other churches.

"I knew then that everything wasn't kosher with him," the priest said.

The priest said he called the guestmaster at Gethsemane Monday night on a hunch the man might be staying there.

The monks at Gethsemane take a vow of silence and the monastery seemed an unlikely spot for a hideout. The guestmaster, however, is excused from the vow to answer the telephone and to speak with visitors at the monastery near Bardstown, Ky.

Police report however that the monks, forewarned by the reverend's call, let Eitel in, but wouldn't let him leave the monastery. They called Cincinnati police, who came to arrest the 47-year-old man.

Inspector re-exams possible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of boiler inspectors licensed under a former state administrator convicted for theft in office, falsifying state records and forgery, may have to be re-examined, Sam McAdow, industrial relations deputy director, said Thursday.

Robert J. Graven was convicted last week in Franklin County Common Pleas Court. He was former chief of the division of mechanical inspection and licensing.

The confusion, McAdow said, is whether inspectors were properly licensed as a result of an administrative reorganization Graven conducted under the administration of former Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Graven had new tests prepared for boiler inspector licenses and he had ruled that inspectors were interchangeable in the pressure piping, steam engineers and boiler units.

McAdow said when Gov. James A. Rhodes took office in January the inspection units were again separated and inspectors reassigned to a specialty based on their qualifications.
